What is “No Child Left Behind”?

Education act signed into law in 2002 by President George W. Bush

- This Act, which redefined the federal role in K-12 education, was the most sweeping reform of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA), since its enactment in 1965.
- The law was based on four basic principles: stronger accountability for results, increased flexibility and local control, expanded options for parents, and an emphasis on proven methods.

What is “Every Student Succeeds Act”?

Reauthorized version of the ESEA, signed into law in 2015 by President Barack Obama

- Represents an important step forward to improve the nation’s education system.
- While No Child Left Behind expected 100 percent proficiency for all students by 2014, ESA gives states the authorization to identify their own goals to address proficiency on tests, English-language proficiency and graduation rates.

What is “Every Student Succeeds Act”? (Continued)

- The law maintains the annual testing requirement for Reading and Math in grades 3-8 and once in high school, and grade-span testing in Science. It also maintains subgroup reporting and a 95 percent testing requirement.
- ESSA is an improvement over the expired NCLB Act, shifting more authority to states and limiting federal mandates while maintaining a shared framework for K-12 accountability.

- In accordance with ESSA’s orderly transition provision, ESSA components will be fully implemented at the beginning of the 2017-2018 school year.
- Therefore, States, Districts and schools shall continue to implement most of the requirements of the Title I Program in the 2016-2017 school year in accordance with NCLB, as they existed in the 2015-2016 school year.

What is Title I?

M-DCPS Department of Family Support Services
"Connecting families, schools, and communities"

The Department of Family Support Services (FSS) was created to assist families needing additional guidance in navigating the complexities of this large district and accessing services. Their motto is "Connecting families, schools, and communities." The department's first major project is Parents-Helping-Parents (PHP).

Parents-Helping-Parents is a parent outreach project created to assist parents of the most vulnerable students attending selected schools implementing the Title I School-wide Program. The primary goal of this initiative is to:

- Increase meaningful parental involvement by enhancing parents' understanding of the policies impacting their children;
- Perfecting their advocacy skills on behalf of their children; and
- Learning to effectively share information and support with other parents at the school.

The PHP project will be phased in at all schools implementing the Title I School-wide Program over a three year period.
